

Notes on Jeremiah 18:1-17

Intro: Since this is the end of the quarter, I wanted to thank each of you for your interest in the class and your participation. I will be teaching the teenage group for the next quarter. Will continue to prepare questions for both classes. Brother Harold and Brother Buc will teach the auditorium for the next quarter.

Since we are bringing this section of Jeremiah to a close, it might be well to review some of the main lessons taught during this quarter. Let's take a moment to review some of the outstanding prophecies and lessons of this section as well as our lesson tonight.

Overview of prophetic literature (See earlier lesson)

Background of Manasseh, Ammon, Josiah

First twenty chapters (Main messages)

Review the highlights of the section

Outstanding passages

Judah to be clay in God's hands--18:1-17

God's control of the nations of the world--18:7-10 Such power now belongs to Christ.

Israel's apostasy is unprecedented and appalling, thus her punishment will be severe--v. 13-17

Jeremiah prays for judgment on his persecutors--18:18-23

Note the conception that is expressed against Jeremiah. Surely all those preachers could not be wrong! v. 18

Jeremiah's prayer is not merely one of personal vengeance; but realization of divine justice. It is God and His word that they have opposed in their persecutions of Jeremiah.
